Berlin, March 11.

THE new King continues to make Regulations and Reductions. He has united the Councils of State and War, which were before held separately, and has nominated two new Ministers of State, viz. M. de Creutz and de Grumkow. The other Evening his Czarian Majesty arrived at Schonhausen, where the Baron de Bartholdi, Minister of State to his Majesty of Prussia, accompanied by the great Cup-bearer and several other Officers of the Household, attended to receive him. His Prussian Majesty came thither Yesterday Morning, and dined with the Czar, as did likewise the Margrave Albert, whom the King after Dinner appointed to do the Honours of the House during his Stay in the City, from whence he returned towards the Evening. Last Wednesday her Majesty gave her first Audiences as Queen. We cannot certainly learn the Circumstances of the King of Sweden, though all Advices agree that his Affairs are in a bad Condition. A Letter is newly come to Hand, dated February 16, writ by one of the King of Sweden's Party, of which the following Passages relating to that Prince are an Extract. "I find the News from the East as bad as you say that from the West is good, since we are informed by all those who come from thence that a great Revolution has happened there lately. We cannot yet certainly tell what it is, but it is the general Opinion that the Grand Signior is de-throned. As to the King of Sweden, 'tis certain he is no longer at Bender. Some will have it that he is gone away upon being advised that his Life was in great Danger. Others affirm that he has been obliged by Force to quit the said City; that his Domesticks have been put in Arrest, and that the House where he lodged is burnt down, &c."

The Allies of the North, according to Letters from Hufum of the 11th, dispose every thing for the Bombardment of Tonningen. The Muscovites are advanced within Cannon-shot of the said City, in which they are informed Want and Sickness very much increase, there being 2 or 300 Men of a Regiment Sick, for want of fresh Water. They desert by Numbers every Day, and Generals as well as other Officers escape by Night in Barks, which which go as far as the Coasts of East Prussia.

Vienna, March 4. This Morning an Express is arrived here from the Governour of Transylvania, with Letters that give an Account of the real and melancholy Condition of the King of Sweden. By these Letters the said Governour advises, that the Seraskier of Bender had informed him by an Express sent the 16th of February, that the King of Sweden refusing to submit to the Orders from the Porte to be gone from Bender, and having had very high Words with the Aga charged with these Orders, the latter used Force, and seized 300 Swedes, Officers as well as Soldiers, and sent them Prisoners to Turkey; upon which the King of Sweden, though he had not above 16 Men and his Domesticks, made Opposition, and defended himself against the Turks, in his House which he had built, and fortified a good while before. By this Means he obliged the Turks to bring from Bender 12 Pieces of Cannon, with which they battered the House for 24 Hours, during which time they had 200 Men killed and wounded; but having at last set Fire to it, the King was obliged to surrender himself a Prisoner. This happened the 10th of February. He was immediately carried to the Fortrefs of Bender, and by an Order afterwards from the Sultan transported from thence to Thessalonica, though he had received two slight wounds in defending his House.

From the Paris Letter, dated March 13. Paris, March 13. Letters from Madrid of the 24th of the last Month say, that the Diversions of the Carnival were continued there with great Magnificence. That since the Arrival of an Express from London, and another from the Court of France, it was reported, that the Archduke had agreed to withdraw his Troops from Catalonia, and that General Staremberg had ordered them to be ready to embark with the Archduchess, who only waited for the English Squadron of Ships which was to transport her to Italy. They had likewise received News from Alicante, that 2 French Frigates had taken and carried to Malaga; Holland and Gibraltar Privateers: That the King of Morocco absolutely refused to set at Liberty the English Slaves, and to renew the Truce with Great Britain; but had ordered his Corsairs and Privateers to cruise against all the Ships of that Nation: And that the Moors having made a new Attempt upon a Battalion at Ceuta, had received a very considerable Loss. A Vessel arrived at Cadiz from Havana brings News, that when it came away, the Spanish Flota laden with above 10 Millions of Patacoons was preparing to set sail. According to divers Accounts of the 4th and 6th Instant from our Frontiers, we are informed, that a Party from the Garrison of Saar-Louis totally routed one of the Enemy's Parties which was advanced into the Country to raise Contributions: That other Parties from Namur have taken away several Horses, and plundered part of the Equipage of the Danish Troops, at their Departure from Vilvorde, and that there are come over to us from thence a great Number of Deserters. All our Officers have Orders to have their Equipages in a readiness to march this Month, and the Commissaries of the Train have already bought above 1100 Horses. The Electors of Bavaria and Cologne arrived here a few Days ago, and the former has hired a House about a Leagues distant from this City. Letters from Madrid of the 27th of February say, there arrived a great Number of Recruits which are marched towards Aragon, where they expect expect in a few Days the Horses which are bought to remount the Cavalry. A great Quantity of Provisions are likewise bought in Andalusia, Castille, and Valentia, which are sent by Land and Sea for the Suffisance of the Army which is to be assembled about the 15th of March, to open the Campaign in Catalonia.
